FOREWORD

The Inventory of the Town Archives of New Hampshire is one of a number of guides to historical materials prepared throughout the United States by workers on the Historical Records Survey program of the Work Projects Administration. The publication herewith presented, an inventory of the archives of the town of New Hampton, is number VIII of the Belknap County series of towns.

The Historical Records Survey program was undertaken in the winter of 1935-36 for the purpose of providing useful employment to needy unemployed historians, lawyers, teachers, and research and clerical workers. In carrying out this objective, the project was organized to compile inventories of historical materials, particularly the unpublished government documents and records which are basic in the administration of local government, and which provide invaluable data for students of political, economic, and social history. The archival guide herewith presented is intended to meet the requirements of day-to-day administration by the officials of the county, and also the needs of lawyers, businessmen and other citizens who require facts from the public records for the proper conduct of their affairs. The volume is so designed that it can be used by the historian in his research in unprinted sources in the same way he uses the library card catalog for printed sources.

The inventories produced by the Historical Records Survey program attempt to do more than give merely a list of records—they attempt further to sketch in the historical background of the county or other unit of government, and to describe precisely and in detail the organization and functions of the government agencies whose records they list. The county, town, and other local inventories for the entire country will, when completed, constitute an encyclopedia of local government as well as a bibliography of local archives.

The successful conclusion of the work of the Historical Records Survey program, even in a single county, would not be possible without the support of public officials, historical and legal specialists, and many other groups in the community. Their cooperation is gratefully acknowledged.

The Survey program was organized by Luther H. Evans, who served as Director until March 1, 1940, when he was succeeded by Sargent B. Child, who had been National Field Supervisor since the inauguration of the Survey. The Survey program operates as a Nation-wide series of locally sponsored projects in the Division of Professional and Service Projects, of which Mrs. Florence Kerr, Assistant Commissioner, is in charge.

The Historical Records Survey was initiated in January 1936 as a Nation-wide undertaking of the Work Projects Administration, but did not begin operations in New Hampshire until April 7. Prior to August 31, 1939, the Survey was Federally sponsored, but since that date it has been a local project sponsored by the University of New Hampshire. Until March 1940, this project was directed by Dr. Richard G. Wood. At that time Dr. Wood became State Supervisor of Research and Records Projects, and the present State Supervisor was appointed.

The purpose of the Survey is to make accessible to lawyers, historians, and students of government the records of State, county, municipal, and town offices. In addition church records, including those of defunct organizations, are being inventoried so that a foundation may be laid for research in this field of social history. The present volume is the seventh of a series of inventories concerning town archives of New Hampshire. A key volume, Town Government in New Hampshire, and a volume titled Guide to Depositories of Manuscript Collections in the United States--New Hampshire have recently been published. Five volumes on county archives and one volume on church records have also been issued.

In addition to listing the records of the different town officers, the inventory sketches briefly the historical background of the town of New Hampton and describes the organization of the offices whose records are listed. The essays on the individual offices present only material relating specifically to New Hampton. For a history of the legal background of each office, and its State-wide implication, it is necessary to consult the key volume mentioned in the preceding paragraph. Records are described in entries whose style is formalized to give the following information: Title of record, dates for which available, quantity, labeling of volumes or containers, information on missing or discontinued records, variant titles, description of record contents, manner of arrangement, indexing, nature of recording, size of volumes or containers, and location.

The listing of the New Hampton records was begun by Nelson B. Piper and was completed and brought up to date by Christine M. Bruce. The recheck was completed by Perley L. Cater and Samuel T. Bakus. The forms were edited by Perley L. Cater and the entries were written by Samuel T. Bakus. The essays in this publication were written by Bernice M. Newell and Antonio L. Sylvester. The editorial work was done by Gordon F. Palmer, State editor, and William T. Clear. The legal research which forms the basis for the essays was conducted under the direction of Beatrice B. Calnan. The maps, charts, and cover design were drawn by Edward F. Tile, project artist. The index was prepared by Beatrice B. Calnan. Documentation was checked by Bernard K. Kay and Arthur A. Blake. The stencils were out by Alice A. Telge and the mimeographing was done by Rita E. Duffley and Rita D. Floden under the direction of Kathleen E. Schragle. Helpful criticism of this inventory in manuscript form was offered by Mabel S. Brodie, assistant archivist in charge of public records

The Survey wishes to express its appreciation for the cooperation given and the courtesy shown to its workers by the New Hampton officials, and by John Curtis Gowan, Registrar of New Hampton School. The Survey is also indebted to the Secretary of State, the Manchester City Library, and the New Hampshire State Library for facilities granted the Survey in its research work. Labor funds have been furnished by the Work Projects Administration. The Survey wishes to acknowledge the contributions of the county of Hillsborough, the city of Manchester, and other cities and towns throughout the State towards non-labor expenses.

The inventory of the archives of the towns of Belknap County is number 1 of the New Hampshire series. The New Hampton inventory is volume VIII of the Belknap series.

Copies of the inventory will be distributed to government agencies, colleges, the University, and to libraries in New Hampshire and outside the State. A complete list of publications will be found on page 84. Requests for information concerning these volumes should be addressed to the State Supervisor, Administration Building, Lincoln and Silver Streets, Manchester, New Hampshire.

A. TOWN OF NEW HAMPTON AND ITS RECORDS SYSTEM

1. HISTORICAL SKETCH

Colonel Jonathan Moulton, and the other proprietors of Moultonboro, received the grant of Moultonboro Addition in the year 1765.¹ This territory was incorporated as New Hampton in 1777. The act of incorporation authorized the calling of the first town meeting at which all necessary and customary officers should be chosen.²

The early town records were destroyed by fire in 1887, so the activities at town meetings for a period of about 20 years can only be assumed. A fairly complete set of officers was chosen in 1797, in which year the extant Town Meeting Books begin.³

That religious matters were of importance to the early inhabitants of New Hampton is evidenced by a vote in 1798 when the town decided "to Build a Meeting House on the Minister Lott as near Phinehas Dolloff house as the ground will allow."⁴ At a later meeting held April 4, 1798, it was voted "to give Lieut. Samuel Kelly Jr. two hundred Dollars in Consequence of his Building a Certain meeting House frame * * * at the Spot of Ground where Said Town has Voted to Build it and to be Completed by the last of September next."⁵

At a meeting of December 16, 1799, it was voted to choose a committee to "Agree with Mr. Salmon Hibard * * * to preach Six Saboths upon probation."⁶ In March 1800 a committee was chosen to make arrangements for his permanent settlement. These arrangements proved satisfactory and the call was accepted by Mr. Hibard in a letter dated June 21, 1800.⁷

This church, like many of the early town churches in New Hampshire, was Congregational in denomination. In 1801 it had a membership of 135. However, this number gradually decreased and in 1820, meetings were discontinued. In 1842 the church was dissolved and the members still remaining joined the church in Bristol.⁸

The Freewill Baptists were active in New Hampton as early as 1800. In that year a petition to the selectmen asked that they be allowed the use of the meeting-house in "proportion of time for the money they have paid and are holden to pay towards the Building and Compleating said Meeting House", and that they "Shall have their Equal proportion of the public privilages in town."⁹ About that time, however, the Freewill Baptists began building a meeting-house of their own. When they held the first services in their meeting-house, the only seats were rough benches. Later it was decided to build pews. James Huckins, the first deacon, opposed the idea because he thought the pews would be too comfortable. The church members were too worldly minded, he thought, and the matter troubled him so much that he walked the floor all night. Nevertheless, the pews were built, but they were square and box-like with high backed seats, and they were not comfortable. One of the first ministers was Reverend Simeon Dana, better known as Dr. Dana; and the church became known as the Dana Church. By 1890 interest in the church was waning, but it was revived through the efforts of Reverend A. J. Gordon. The building was repaired about that time.¹ Only summer services are held in the Dana Church now. The only other church in town is the Community Baptist.

That schools occupied an important place in the early history of New Hampton can hardly be doubted. However, the information concerning them is very meager over a period of 20 years since the early town records were destroyed by fire.

The first mention of schools in the extant Town Meeting Books appears in 1797 when an article was inserted in the warrant "To see if the Town will vote to Sell fifty Acres of land * * * and put the money to interest and S^d interest to Support Schooling." At a meeting held three weeks later, this was done.² New Hampton conformed with the act of 1805 in regard to school districts, for in 1807 a committee of three persons was chosen "to Divide the Districts for Schooling."³ That this division was made is proven by a vote two years later "that every School District have the privelage of chooseing their own Collectors of School Money."⁴ In 1833 the town was divided into 13 well defined districts.⁵ The boundary lines were changed occasionally but there were still 13 districts in 1885 when the educational system in New Hampton, like that in other New Hampshire towns, was reorganized as the result of a State law which dissolved the then existing school districts.⁶ At the present time, New Hampton is a member of Supervisory Union No. 18.⁷

By an act of 1821, nineteen men were incorporated as the proprietors of New Hampton Academy. They were entitled to possess, and to use for the benefit of the academy, real estate providing an annual income of not more than $500, and personal estate not exceeding $10,000. A board of three trustees was established which at the discretion of the proprietors was to be elected annually. Also, at their discretion, this number could be increased to five.⁸

On July 27, 1826, it was voted at a town meeting to grant the proprietors the right to "erect one building on the town Common * * *."⁹ In the same year, an act was passed to change the name to The Academical and Theological Institution in New Hampton. By this act, the real and personal estate holdings were augmented and the board of trustees increased to 11. Five were elected by the Baptist Convention and five by the proprietors. The eleventh was to be the principal of the academy who was to have a vote in the transaction of all business except the choosing of instructors.¹

A Female Department was added in 1827 and it became very popular. The first principal was Martha Hazeltine who presided over the department for 12 years.²

The Baptist Convention in 1829 was accorded the right to appoint seven of the eleven trustees.³ In 1849 it was enacted that the school should be supervised and controlled by a board of 10 trustees, the entire board to be elected by the Baptist Convention.⁴

About 1852 a large debt had accumulated, the school's income having been inadequate to meet the expenses. Efforts to obtain an endowment had proved unavailing and various contributions, though reducing the debt somewhat, had not been sufficient to liquidate it. Negotiations with an association known as the Northern Educational Union resulted in the removal of the school to Fairfax, Vermont.⁵

Keen regret was felt in New Hampton over the loss of the school and the inhabitants determined to secure another such institution. Under the leadership of Colonel Rufus G. Lewis a movement was begun. The cooperation of the Freewill Baptists was solicited. The members of this society responded wholeheartedly which resulted in the securing of a charter January 5, 1853. Thirteen persons were incorporated as the New Hampton Literary and Biblical Institution at New Hampton, New Hampshire.⁶

Professor Benjamin Stanton was the first principal. The school was under the leadership of various men for short periods of time until 1868, when the Reverend Arthur Bond Meservey assumed charge and was principal for 30 years.⁷ During these years, the school flourished and the establishment of the Commercial College took place. This branch attracted hundreds of students and added much to the reputation of the school.⁸ Professor Frank W. Preston became head of the school when Mr. Meservey resigned June 30, 1898.⁹

A reorganization in 1916 resulted in the cessation of the Baptist control¹⁰ and the school became non-sectarian. In 1917 an act of the legislature ratified the school by-laws of 1916.¹¹ In 1918 Mr. Preston was made president. He resigned in 1923. Since that time there have been three presidents, the last being Frederick Smith who heads the institution at the present time. He became principal in 1926 at a time when a change was urgent. Although the charter was not altered, a different policy was adopted at that time. The institution ceased to be coeducational and became known as the New Hampton School for Boys; the girls thereafter furthering their education at Bristol High School. New Hampton School has a current enrollment of 150 pupils and a faculty of 15 teachers.¹

The equipment of New Hampton School includes ten modern buildings occupying with campus and recreation fields about 50 acres of land. New Hampton graduates have included John Wentworth, the first mayor of Chicago; Nathan Clifford, a justice of the United States Supreme Court, 1858-91; nine state governors; several college presidents; and a number of prominent editors.²

Social libraries were a feature of cultural life in the early 1800's many New Hampshire towns and New Hampton was no exception. The legislature, June 14, 1813, incorporated William B. Kelley, Samuel Kelley, the third, Thomas Simpson, Joseph R. Kelley, Nicholas M. Taylor, Ebenezer Sandborn, Joseph Robinson, and Daniel Smith as proprietors of the New Hampton Social Library. They were vested with the usual privileges of social library proprietors.³ The Survey has not been able to determine exactly how long this library functioned, but it probably did not continue much later than the middle of the century.

Various private libraries were maintained by societies within the New Hampton institution, but the books were available to the public.⁴ The Town Meeting Books record the organization in 1833 of the Social Fraternity, the purpose of the group being to conduct a library and reading room and to pursue other literary activities.⁵ This was probably the formal ratification of a condition already existing, since there is evidence that the society in question was active prior to the date of organization as recorded in the Town Meeting Books. Headmaster Frederick Smith of the New Hampton School has a record of the fraternity which begins in 1831 (see Appendix, entries 1-5). Moreover, Professor F. W. Preston stated that the fraternity was founded in 1830 or earlier.⁶ The fraternity still is active in a social way, but its library was turned over to the Gordon-Nash Library in 1896.⁷

The Literary Adelphi Society was founded in 1827.⁸ It was chartered two years later.⁹ Its library was also turned over to the Gordon-Nash Library in 1896, although, like the Social Fraternity, it is still active.¹⁰

Another students' organization that maintained a library was the Germanae Dilectae Scientiae which was organized in 1853. This was a young ladies' society which continued active as long as the institution was coeducational. Its library came into the possession of the Gordon-Nash Library in 1896.¹

As a fitting expression of loyalty and devotion to his native New Hampton, Judge Stephen Gordon Nash founded the Gordon-Nash Library. In 1887 he obtained a charter for this institution.² The library building was to be located on a lot which he had selected and bought. He named five corporators, including his wife and himself.³

In his will which was drawn up a short time after the incorporation, he expressed the desire "To establish a public library and reading-room in Smith's Village, New Hampton, N. H., my native place, for the free use of the people of said town, whether residents, students, or sojourners." He made an outright gift of $18,000 to the library and also made it his residuary legatee. He died in 1894 and, immediately following his death, a special committee of two was chosen to draw up a contract for and to supervise the erection of the building. The next year 12 more persons, most of whom were from New Hampton, were elected as corporators, and by-laws were adopted.⁴ That same year, an act was passed to amend the charter. The real and personal estate holdings were thereby increased from $15,000 to $50,000.⁵ Other corporators were chosen at various times, all of whom did their best to carry out the plans of the town's benefactor.⁶

At a meeting of March 10, 1896, the town voted "to accept the gift of the late Stephen G. Nash and that the town hereby extends a vote of thanks for the same." It was also voted to appropriate the sum of $200 to pay the expense of the dedication.⁷ The library was formally opened June 25, 1896.⁸

Mrs. Nash, who had given her husband much encouragement and help in carrying out his plans, survived him by only about seven years. At this time the total value of the bequest amounted to $50,000. Samuel G. Davis of Boston, a trusted friend and adviser of Judge Nash, had been made treasurer at the time of the library's inception. He proved worthy of the trust placed in him and, through the judicious handling of funds invested, he consistently increased the income of the institution.⁹

In 1901 the library contained around 8,000 donated books, and valuable furnishings. Each year more volumes were added and in 1903, $1,400 was spent for additional books.¹⁰ The total number is now more than 15,000 volumes. The library is maintained by the income from invested funds that exceed $150,000.¹ It is located near the buildings of the New Hampton School.

Due to the destruction of the early town minutes, New Hampton's share in the Revolutionary War cannot be described in detail, but it has been stated that New Hampton furnished its quota according to the town's population at that time, and that the names credited to New Hampton included those of Joseph Smith, Samuel Kelley, Thomas Woodman, Levi Chapman, Nathaniel Kelley, Jeremiah Smith, Robert Simpson, and Thomas Simpson.² The latter served in General Richard Montgomery's Canadian expedition, and at Saratoga and Monmouth. He possessed the rank of major at the close of the war.³ Some space should be devoted to New Hampton's record in the Civil War. In July 1861 the State legislature enacted a law authorizing towns to raise money to aid the families of soldiers in the service of the United States.⁴ By November of the same year the town of New Hampton had voted to hire $500 for that purpose. At the same November meeting it was voted to pay a bounty of $10 to each volunteer. The legality of the vote was questioned, and 22 men personally underwrote the sum necessary.⁵ In August 1862 it was voted to pay $200 to each volunteer who enlisted to fill the town's first quota, and a like sum for each volunteer enlisting to fill the second quota.⁶ It was voted in October 1862 to pay $200 to all volunteers who had been mustered into the service of the United States since the last call of the President, and who had not already received that sum.⁷ The following year the town voted to borrow $500 for the support of soldiers' families.⁸ It was also voted in October of that same year to pay $300 to each drafted man or his substitute during the term of one year from the day the vote was passed. It was further voted to pay to each drafted man or his substitute, serving three years or for the duration of the war, the sum of $100 upon his discharge from service, the money to be paid to his family in the event of his death.⁹ In December of 1863 it was voted to raise $11,000 to pay the men comprising the town's quota.¹⁰ At least three votes relating to bounties were passed in 1864.¹¹

Benjamin F. Kelley, a native of New Hampton, mustered the first regiment of loyal troops that was raised south of the Mason and Dixon line after the war broke out. He was commissioned colonel, May 25, 1861, by General George B. McClellan. Two days after receiving his commission, Colonel Kelley led his troops to attack a Confederate force at Grafton, Virginia. He reached Grafton June 1, the Confederates having, in the meanwhile, retreated to Philippi. Colonel Kelley and his men continued their advance and on the third day of the month, having marched all night through a drenching rain, took the enemy by surprise at four o'clock in the morning, and completely routed them. Colonel Kelley was badly wounded, and it was believed that he would not recover.¹ Upon hearing the news, General McClellan sent the following telegram to one of Colonel Kelley's fellow officers:

Say to Colonel Kelley that I cannot yet believe it possible that one who has opened his course so brilliantly can be mortally wounded. In the name of the country I thank him for his conduct, which has been the most brilliant episode of the war thus far. If it can cheer him in his last moments, tell him I cannot repair his loss and I only regret that I cannot be by his side to thank him in person. God bless him.²

Colonel Kelley fortunately recovered and was appointed to the rank of brigadier-general. Throughout the war he performed important services for the Union cause in Virginia, West Virginia, and Maryland.³

The old time muster has long since passed into the realm of history, but in the early days the annual muster in country towns was anticipated by young and old. Everyone for miles around assembled for this gala occasion and after the regiments had been inspected, reviewed, and dismissed, the muster field assumed the aspect and activities of a country fair. There were vendors, auctioneers, freak shows, and all the various attractions commonly found on fair grounds.⁴

However, during the morning hours, military activities occupied the serious attention of all. E. C. Lewis describes a New Hampton muster of 1852 as "the most important local event of the year, and it always drew a big crowd. The towns of Meredith, Sanbornton, and New Hampton contributed to the old 29th regiment and it was really quite a formidable military body."⁵

The May training although not as important a gathering as the muster, was also an annual event, and attracted its share of curious onlookers. A contrast to the muster can be noted in Mr. Lewis' description when he writes that the May training was rather an insignificant event:

The officers came out in full uniform, but the men cared little for these things, and paid little heed to their equipment beyond what the law absolutely required. Slam Bang companies were the popular name for them, and the term suggests not only their appearance but also their evolutions and the knowledge of their officers. But May training was a great day for us youngsters. To hear Samuel Ward play the fife or operate on the snare drum with some stout fellow to hammer away on the bass, set all the boys wild, and we trailed around the musicians until the rude but soul stirring concert was over.¹

In the early days the industries of New Hampton were many and varied. Prominent among them were saw and grist mills. There was a wheelwright shop where buggies and wagons were made, a woolen mill to which the inhabitants brought their wool to be carded, and a hosiery mill which also manufactured gloves. There was a tannery owned and operated in conjunction with a successful boot and shoe business.²

Musical instruments were made by hand in a small shop run by David Dyer. This was eventually taken over by two brothers, Stephen and Augustus Newell, who were former employees of Mr. Dyer. Cabinet organs were manufactured with a great measure of success, the finished product comparing most favorably with any made elsewhere at that time.³

The manufacture of hats occupied a prominent place in the industrial life of New Hampton. Both woolen and palm leaf hats were made, the braiding being done in the homes. Churns, coffins, sashes, and blinds were also made in New Hampton and even friction matches, which were practically unheard of at that time, were ingeniously manufactured.⁴

None of these industries have survived to the present day except a saw mill or two. Farming on a small scale, including the growing of apples, is practiced. The New Hampton School employs 45 people including the faculty; the Gordon-Nash Library employs three persons; several stores furnish employment for about eight people.

It would be well to mention in connection with the industries of New Hampton the State Fish Hatchery. About 1875, George H. Dickerman, a business man from Boston, purchased property in the town and started a fish hatchery, which he operated as a hobby. It continued under the control of the Dickerman family until 1919 when it was purchased by the State and became the third State-owned hatchery. The present superintendent, Harry E. Hubbard, was appointed and assumed charge as soon as the deeds were recorded.

The hatchery specializes in raising trout, and several years ago an experiment with albino trout was started. At the present time there are about 1,000 of this species at the hatchery and it is expected that a fourth generation will be spawned this winter. The original progenitors died in 1938 and were mounted. They are now in the home of Mr. Hubbard and may be seen by interested persons.

At one time an effort was made to raise Chinook salmon but it became difficult to obtain the eggs which came from the Pacific coast and the experiment was abandoned some time ago. In 1934, twenty new tanks were added to the equipment. At the present time four men are steadily employed and three are employed part time.¹

There is nothing new in the idea of contrasting the present with the past to the advantage of an earlier generation. E. C. Lewis in 1898 wrote in the following terms of the New Hampton of 50 years earlier:

That generation did not ride in so fine carriages, dress so smartly, nor live in such comfortable, cozy homes, neither did it know or talk about what went on in the outside world as it does now * * * Postmaster Simpson and Col. Lewis were all who had the daily paper, and when the weekly came it had more space given to prosy editorials than to fresh and stirring news * * * They were content to patronize the home town tailor and the cobbler and had not forgot the use of the hand loom and the spinning wheel. They had begun to look West for their flour but their corn and meal was of home growth, and so largely was their beef and pork. Among their craftsmen could be counted the tanner, the butcher, the cooper, the shoemaker, the blacksmith, the miller, the reed organ maker, and the basket maker. Grant that they were narrower in their views, less glib of speech, less stylish in dress, less informed on matters outside their own boundaries, were they on that account less able to enjoy life? I think not. The little lads in their blue drilling trousers and palm leaf hats, and the little misses in their cheap dresses were as good scholars, and more defferential to their elders, as capable of taking care of themselves as their smarter-looking and more slangly talking successors of today.²

A well known character of this earlier New Hampton was James Simpson of whom there is a fascinating pen picture in the writings of Mr. Lewis:

Esquire James Simpson, "Old Post" served as postmaster and town clerk for many years. He held these joint offices so long that some confused them and when Capt. Norris asked to be made clerk his canvass went to pieces because people said they wouldn't go to the center for their letters. I never knew Mr. Simpson except as a very old man with thin white hair, who was very lame and walked with a cane. He was a kind, obliging neighbor, but a most intense Democrat and his wrath would flame out in a big blaze whenever his political prejudices were assailed. He rarely went from home except to give his wife an airing in his top buggy or to attend town meeting where he would appear in a long black overcoat and top hat. I picture him as he used to sit on his high chair beside his little stove in his curious little office, reading the Boston Post and puffing at his long stemmed pipe, or going over the contents of a huge bag of mail. In those days there were no stamps and Mr. Simpson affixed the postmark on each letter in his own handwriting and placed in the corner the figures 5 or 10 which told the story of paid or unpaid postage. A part of his duties as town clerk was to publish the marriage intentions, and for this he had a little red case with a baize background and glass door, and on Sunday morning he would hobble up to the church and hang it in the entry.¹

It was not until about 1852 that the steam engine became the means of transportation for the people of New Hampton. Previous to that time the arrival of the stage coach was an important event in the day's routine:

In the morning at nine oclock the stage came down from Plymouth, sometimes by way of Ashland, and sometimes on the Bridgewater side of the river. At 5 P. M. the coach from Concord came in. Both halted in front of the hotel. Driver Willis or Marden threw down the reins from the six steaming steeds, and M. L. Palmer rapidly doubled them up and unhitched the wagon. He then led the animals around the West end of the hotel to the stage stable which stood inside the Mansion House lot, and presently came back with fresh ones that started up Shinglecamp and were off at a good round trot. While the stage was waiting, the mail bag was flung out, eagerly caught up by George or Alonzo Morrison and carried on the run down the hill to Postmaster Simpson who went into executive session over its contents in his queer narrow office. Needless to say these two arrivals constituted the leading events of the day, and never lacked for a little knot of lookers-on.²

There has been but one division of territory in New Hampton's history. In 1797 the northeast section of the town was set off and incorporated as Center Harbor.³

The population of the town continued to grow from 652 in 1790 to 1,904 in 1830⁴ but, like many New Hampshire towns, for the next 100 years the population continued to decrease until in 1930 the town had but 692 inhabitants.⁵ Since 1930, however, the population has increased until at present it is 791.⁶

New Hampton is situated about 35 miles north of Concord. It is bounded on the north by Ashland, northeast by Center Harbor, east by Sanbornton and Meredith, south by Hill, and west by Bristol.

2. GOVERNMENTAL ORGANIZATION AND RECORDS SYSTEM

The Masonian Proprietors, November 17, 1763, granted to Colonel Jonathan Moulton and others a tract of land called Moultonboro.¹ The grantees were not entirely satisfied with the quality of their land, but they were appeased two years later by an additional grant known as Moultonboro Addition. The two grants combined were to be divided into 82 shares and each share was to be subdivided into three lots.²

The additional grant was incorporated as a separate town November 27, 1777, and it was named New Hampton in honor of Colonel Moulton's native Hampton.³ The act of incorporation stated that the boundaries of the new town were to begin "at the North Easterly Corner of Meredith about Thirty Rods from Winnepissiokee Pond." The act endowed the town with the usual privileges, and authorized Samuel Kelley to call the first meeting.⁴

It is impossible to trace the governmental organization of New Hampton during the first 20 years of its corporate history. The earliest records of the town were destroyed by fire in 1887. The extant Town Meeting Books begin with the twenty-second article voted upon at the town meeting for 1797.⁵

Votes passed at this meeting included the raising of $500 for highway purposes and $100 for general town expenses. The selectmen were directed to purchase "two good Brown Book" for the town's use; and they were directed to compensate Captain Noah Robinson for the use of his house as a town meeting place the preceding year.⁶

The surviving portion of the records for this meeting shows the election of a moderator pro tem., three selectmen, one constable, two collectors, one treasurer, fourteen surveyors of highways, three fish wardens, five assessors, three auditors, fifteen "Hogs Reaphs & Hawards", six fence viewers, three surveyors of lumber, one culler of staves, and four tythingmen. The selectmen were directed to appoint a pound-keeper.⁷

Of the offices mentioned in the 1797 minutes the following have survived: moderator, selectman, tax collector, constable, treasurer, and auditor. The office of surveyor of highways has been replaced by that of road agent. Selectmen perform the duties of assessors. The constable, as a law enforcement officer, has been replaced by police. Such offices as fish warden, hogreeve and haward, surveyor of lumber, fence viewer, culler of staves, tythingman, and pound-keeper have disappeared.

Offices added at a later date, but subsequently dropped, were those of the committee to examine schools, superintending school committee, overseer of the poor, tree warden, informer and complainant, dog police, town prosecutor, liquor agent, sealer of weights and measures, corder of wood, field driver, and hog constable.

At the present time the voters of New Hampton at their annual town meeting elect, for a 1-year term, a town clerk, one tax collector, one treasurer, two auditors, one road agent, and one police officer; and, for a 3-year term, one of the three selectmen. At the November biennial election the voters choose three supervisors of the check-list and a moderator. The selectmen appoint biennially four election inspectors of whom the moderator designates two to act as ballot clerks. The selectmen recommend the forest fire warden, who receives his appointment from the State Forester, and the health officer, who is appointed by the State Board of Health. The forest fire warden's term is one year or until his successor is appointed; the term of the health officer is three years or until his successor is appointed. The selectmen in 1936 appointed for an indefinite term a deputy town clerk who continues to hold office. In 1940 they appointed a surveyor of wood and lumber for an indefinite term. The Gordon-Nash Library Corporation elects each year an executive committee of three members, a president, a vice-president, a secretary, and a treasurer. The New Hampton Cemetery Association elects annually five directors, a president, a vice-president, a secretary, a treasurer, a sexton, an auditor, and a 4-member investment committee. At the 1940 town meeting the moderator appointed a committee of three persons to work with Clarence C. Swain and John Curtis Gowan in the preparation of a town history.

The New Hampton Village Fire Precinct elects a moderator, a clerk, a treasurer, and three firewards for 1-year terms, and an electric light commissioner for a 3-year term. It elects three water commissioners every five years. The association of firemen within the precinct annually elects a chief, an assistant chief, a captain, and a clerk-treasurer.

The voters of the New Hampton school district at their annual meeting choose one member of the 3-member school board, a moderator, a clerk, and a treasurer. The superintendent of schools is nominated by the New Hampton school board in conjunction with the other school boards of Supervisory Union No. 18, the appointment being made by the State Board of Education.

The chief recording officer of the town is the town clerk. Like the clerks of other New Hampshire towns, the New Hampton town clerk keeps that set of records generally referred to as Town Meeting Books. The main purpose of these records is to preserve the warrants and minutes of the town meetings. In addition there have appeared in the Town Meeting Books from time to time such records as those pertaining to tax sales and abatements; oaths, bonds, appointments, and resignations of town officers; assignments of wages; bills of sale; conditional sales; highways and bridges; corporate groups; annual, biennial, and presidential elections; and vital statistics, including family records. There have also appeared records of fence divisions and agreements; appointments of committees; promissory notes; jury warrants and drawings; leases and liens; dog, liquor, tavern, and pleasure boat licenses; the establishment and repair of the meeting-house; perambulations of town lines; and pole petitions and locations; and reports of treasurer and auditors. In this long list there are included records of school districts; strays; selectmen's agreements with town officers; the enrollment of soldiers; the vendue of paupers; police and town farm regulations; and sheep and cattle marks. There are two separate volumes which partially index the foregoing.

Governmental Organization
and Records System

(First entry, p. 28)

It is the duty of New Hampshire town clerks to keep a complete record of vital statistics. The town clerk of New Hampton fully complies with this requirement having a complete record of births, marriages, and deaths from 1842 to date. In addition, there are family records from 1742 to 1860. At the present time the town clerk maintains a double system of recording vital statistics; one branch of which began in 1938.

The town clerk keeps cash books, check-lists, records of personal mortgages and conditional sales, writs of attachments and the index thereof, records of tax sales, licenses and permits, and records of fires. He also keeps appointment books, copies of selectmen's invoices of property, and various miscellaneous records.

The administrative officials of the town—the selectmen—issue the town reports which, in addition to their own, contain the reports of the tax collector; treasurer; town clerk, including vital statistics; road agent; health officer; village fire precinct; school board; and superintendent of schools. These documents, printed annually, contain also such items as a list of town and school district officers, a copy of town and school warrants, a list of appropriations, and the town budget. The selectmen keep financial records which give all pertinent information concerning monies received and expended by the town. The duties of the selectmen as assessors are represented by invoice records and blotter books. Among other records kept by the selectmen are those of tax abatements; pistol or revolver permits; and relief, such as relief orders and relief cards. They also keep various miscellaneous records.

The principal record of the tax collector is "The New Hampshire Collectors Tax Book." In addition this official keeps a cash book and a tax sales record.

The town treasurer keeps accounts of receipts and payments, canceled checks, bank statements, and town notes. The system of recording receipts and payments was changed in February 1927. Since that time these records have been kept in books prescribed by the State Tax Commission.

The election officers—moderator, supervisors of the check-list, and election inspectors—do not keep records. The check-lists are kept by the town clerk.

The highway agent keeps a weekly time book, check stubs, canceled checks, bank statements, and record of receipts and payments.

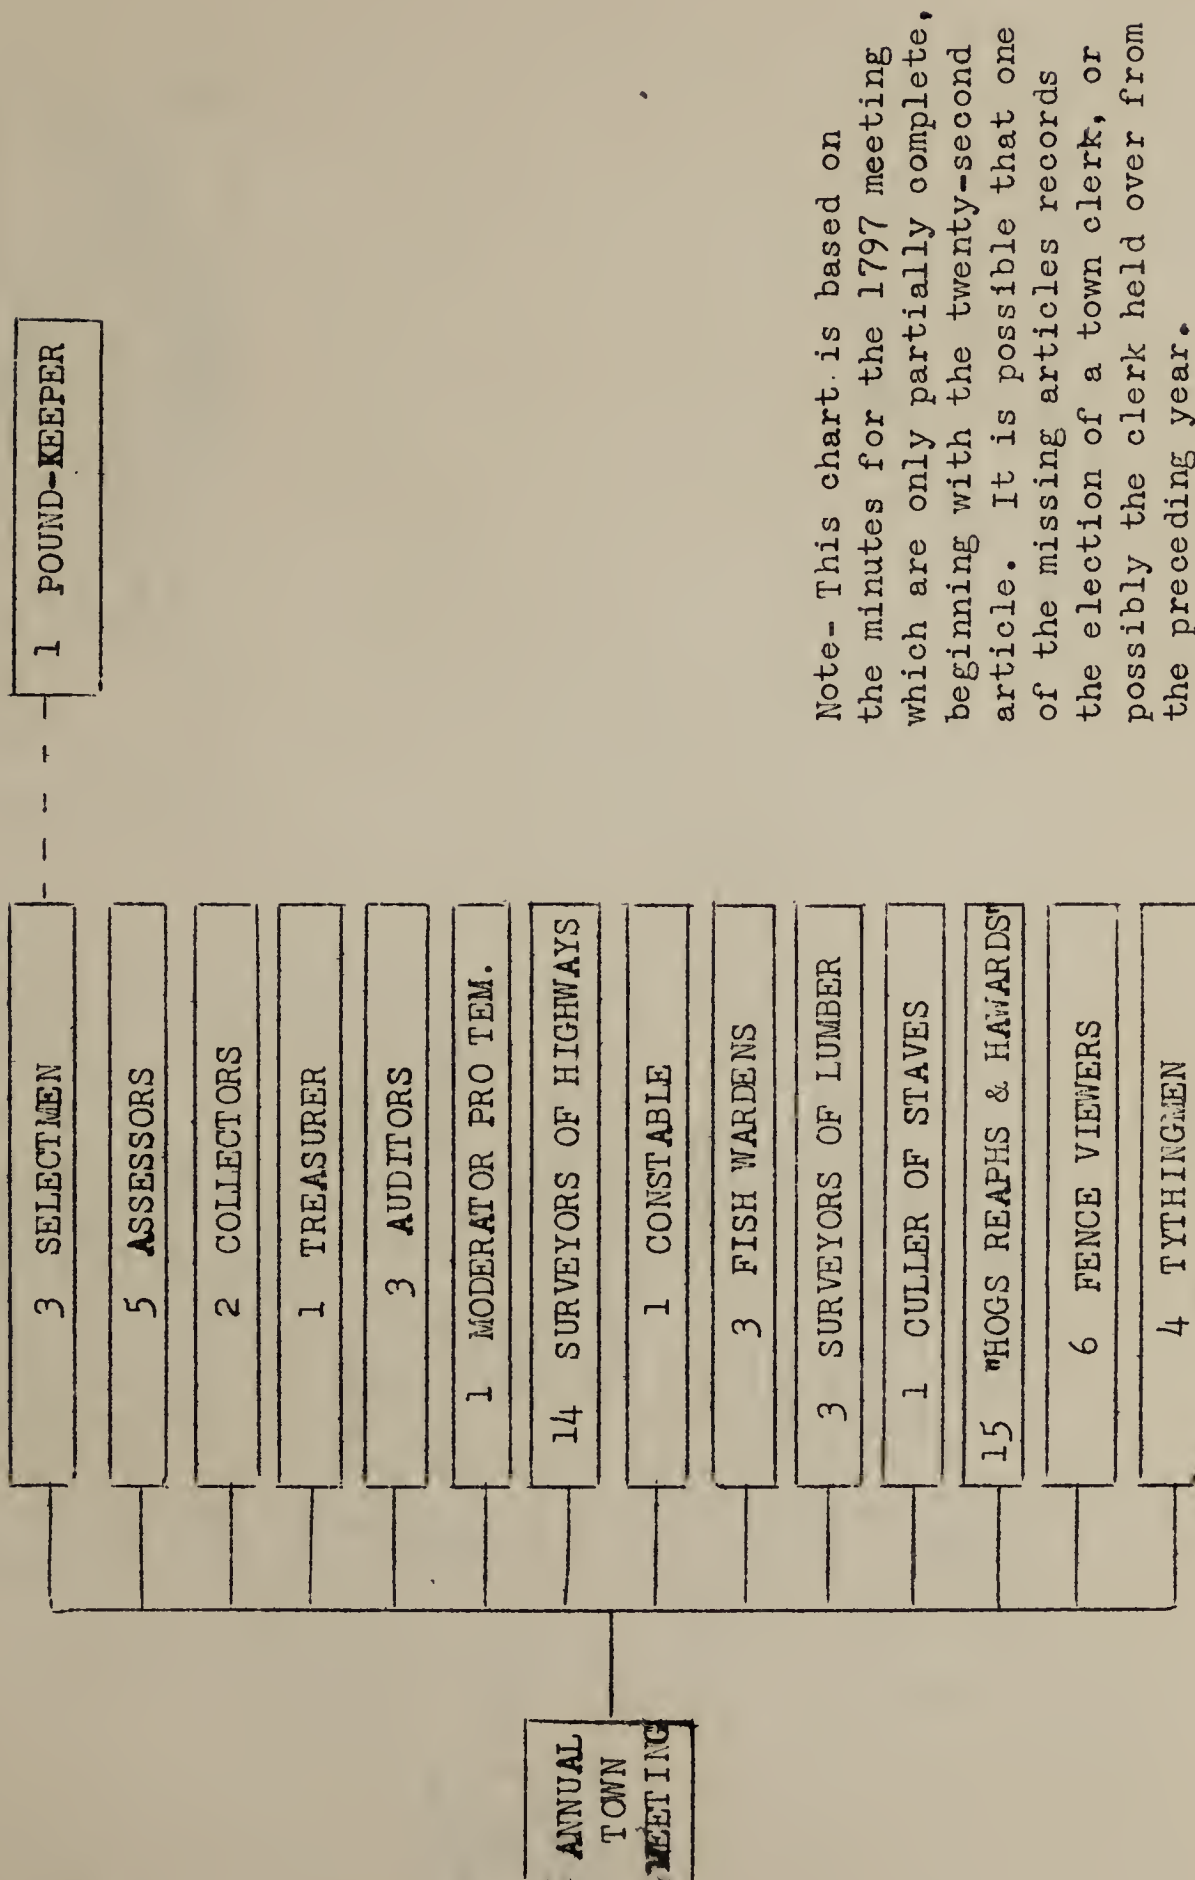

The Gordon-Nash Library Corporation and the New Hampton Cemetery Association, both private institutions, keep records of their meetings. In addition the library keeps records of accessions of books.

The New Hampton Village Fire Precinct keeps warrants, minutes, and records of finance. The fire association keeps a record of its meetings.

The town of New Hampton constitutes a school district which is a unit of Supervisory Union No. 18. School records include minutes of district and board meetings and financial records. Supervisory Union records consist of school registers.

The Appendix of the Inventory lists records of the Social Fraternity, the Literary Adelphi Society, the Germanae Dilectae Scientiae, the New Hampton Young Men's Christian Association, the Town Improvement Association, and an unpublished history of the New Hampton Literary and Biblical Institution (New Hampton School for Boys) by Professor Frank W. Preston.

3. HOUSING, CARE, AND ACCESSIBILITY OF THE RECORDS

An inscription on the town hall gives the date of construction as 1789. It is believed, however, that the figures are reversed, and that the correct date is 1798.¹ A vote recorded in 1797 tends to confirm this viewpoint. Captain Noah Robinson was to receive compensation from the town for meetings held at his house.² This would indicate that the town did not have a meeting place of its own. The next year (1798) the town voted to erect a meeting-house,³ and the building erected as a result of that vote is probably the building now in use as a town hall. The vote stipulated that the building was to be located on the minister's lot, as near as possible to the house of Phineas Dolloff. It was to be 52 feet long and 40 feet wide,⁴ which corresponds to the dimensions of the present town hall. It was renovated in 1940, but no records are kept there.

The principal records of the town are kept in a vault inside the selectmen's office at the Gordon-Nash Library. The library was constructed in 1895 of Perth Amboy brick and red sandstone,⁵ and its dimensions are 50' x 60' x 90'. The vault, 7' 10" x 5' 6" x 7', contains all of the selectmen's records, except 60 duplicate volumes of Town Reports at the State Library; all of the town clerk's records, except one copied volume of town minutes, 1797-1828, in the Secretary of State's vault and a few records at the town clerk's home; and a portion of the records of the tax collector, treasurer, school district, Supervisory Union, road agent, and fire precinct. The remaining records of the tax collector, treasurer, school district, road agent, and precinct are located in the private homes of officials. The remaining Supervisory Union records are located at its headquarters in Franklin. The records of the Gordon-Nash Library are in the reading room of the library and at the residence of the clerk of the corporation. Records of the Cemetery Association are kept at the residence of the association secretary.

Recommendations. For the present, at any rate, the vault at the Gordon-Nash Library appears to be an adequate depository for town records. The Town Meeting Books possess a greater amount of indexing than do the Town Meeting Books of some other New Hampshire towns. Three volumes, 1860-90, and 1939 to date, are indexed by subject matter. This indexing is contained within the volumes. There are also two separate indexes. One of these indexes the vital statistics contained within the minutes for the years 1797-1860. The other indexes alphabetically by subject matter the contents of volume 6, which covers the years 1890-1913. It would be worth while to complete the indexing of these volumes.

The various vital statistics of the town are now only partially indexed. The complete indexing of these important records would be advisable.

Titles: Exact titles of records are written in solid capitals without brackets, as in entry 1. In the absence of titles, descriptive titles have been assigned, which are written in solid caps and enclosed in brackets, as in entry 12. If a record title is not descriptive of the record, an assigned explanatory title, written with initial caps and enclosed in brackets, has been added, as in entry 3. The current or most recent title of a record is used as the entry title and title variation is indicated. Titles of artificial entries (those procured from another entry) are written in solid caps and enclosed in brackets, as in entry 6. In the master entry, the subtitle, referring to the artificial entry, is neither enclosed in brackets nor capitalized (see entry 7-a); in some descriptions, as in entry 3-aj, the title of the entry referred to (see entry 54) is inverted to correspond with alphabetical sequence. When regular entries are referred to in the description of other entries, the exact title of the regular entry is not used, but merely a phrase descriptive of the records, as in entry 47-d, unless the exact title is brief and descriptive, as in entry 3-k.

Dates: First and last dates covered by a particular record are shown in the title-line of the entry. Continuous records are shown by a hyphen between the beginning and closing dates, as 1797-1860 (see entry 1). Lapses in the records are indicated by commas between the groups of inclusive dates, as 1792-1852, 1865-1921 (see entry 44). Current dates are indicated by two hyphens, as 1797--. When the dates of a record cannot be ascertained, the expression "undated" is used, see App. entry 4.

Quantity: When two or more types of containers are considered in a single entry, the quantity is shown in chronological order, insofar as possible.

Labeling: Figures or letters in parentheses, following the number of volumes, file boxes, or other types of containers, indicate the labeling. If no labeling is indicated, it may be assumed that there is none.

Discontinuance: Where no statement is made that the record was discontinued at the last date shown in the entry, it could not be definitely established that such was the case. Where no comment is made on the absence of prior, subsequent, or intermediate records, no definite information could be obtained.

Last Entry: If a record is still open but has no recent entries, the statement "Last entry (date)" is used, see entry 29. In such a case, the date item of the entry indicates that the record is current.

Description of Records: The description item of each entry indicates, in order, the nature of the record, its purpose and use (if not obvious), and the information it contains. The description applies only to the current or most recent record unless change in contents is actually shown in a record entry.

Arrangement: This item is used to show the logical order or planned sequence by which items have been entered in records; it means the internal arrangement of records in volumes, file boxes, or other containers, and not the arrangement of volumes on a shelf.

Indexing: All indexes to records, unless otherwise stated, are self-contained.

Condition of Records: Records are in good condition unless otherwise stated.

Dimensions: When a series consists of more than one volume, it is understood that the pagination of the majority of the volumes or that of the current volume is given. The same rule applies to measurements of file boxes, file drawers, etc. Dimensions are always given in inches, unless otherwise indicated, and, therefore, the symbol for inches ("") has been omitted.

Location of Records: When all or the majority of the records of an office have a common location, the location is indicated in the last sentence of the office essay instead of in each individual entry.

Cross References: Title-line cross references are used to show the continuity of a record series which has been kept separately for a period of time and with other records for different periods of time. An example is that in entry 46: "1792-1852, 1865-1921 in [Selectmen's Accounts] New Hampton Records, entry 44-i; 1853-64 in Record-Abatements, entry 47-c." They are also used in all artificial entries, those set up to cover records which must be shown separately under their proper office even though they are kept in files or records appearing elsewhere in the inventory, as, for example, the title-line cross reference in entry 52, "1833 in Record-New Hampton, N. H. [Town Meeting Books], entry 3-an; 1834-41 in [Selectmen's Accounts], New Hampton Records, entry 44-g", or in those set up for a record which is never kept separately but is found in two or more records of miscellaneous content, such as entry 6. In both instances, the description in the master entry shows the title in lower case and entry number of the record from which the cross reference is made, for example this description in entry 7: "Contains original: a. Birth certificates, entry 6." Dates shown in the description of the master entry or entry of miscellaneous content are only for the part or parts of the record contained therein, and are shown only when they vary from those of the master entry.

Separate third-paragraph cross references from entry to entry, and See also references with subject headings are used to show prior, subsequent, or closely related records which are not parts of the same series. Third-paragraph references cross, but See also references do not cross. Appendix: The appendix of this inventory contains a few isolated records not connected with the regular records of the town.

B. TOWN OFFICES AND THEIR RECORDS

I. TOWN CLERK, DEPUTY TOWN CLERK, SUB-REGISTRAR OF BURIAL PERMITS

No record of a town clerk being elected in 1797 can be found, but at a meeting held March 6, 1798, it was "Voted to give * * * 4 Dollars for Serving Town Clerk the year 1797."¹ From 1798 to date a town clerk has been elected annually.² In some years, in addition to the town clerk elected, one or two town clerks were appointed.³ For two years in the eighteen-eighties a sub-registrar of burial permits was appointed. The title of this office would indicate that it performed one phase of the duties ordinarily performed by the town clerk.⁴ In 1936 there was appointed a deputy town clerk⁵ who still holds that office.

Unless otherwise stated, records are located in the vault inside the selectmen's office, Gordon-Nash Library.

III. ASSESSORS

Assessors, varying in number from three to five, were elected annually in New Hampton from 1797-1819, except for the year 1808.¹ No further mention of the office can be found, except for the year 1833, when four assessors were elected.² It can be assumed that the selectmen have acted as assessors in all years in which assessors have not been elected.

All records pertaining to the assessment of taxes are now in the custody of the selectmen.

IV. TAX COLLECTOR

The office of tax collector was filled from 1797-1836 by election or vendue.³ In some of these years, however, the office was combined with constable.⁴ From 1837-1904, with some exceptions, the office was filled by appointment.⁵ In 1905 a collector was elected⁶ and the following year one was appointed.⁷ There is no record of the manner in which the collector obtained office in 1907, but from 1908 to date a collector has been elected annually.⁸ In addition, in some of the years from 1908-33, collectors were also appointed.⁹

Records are kept at the residence of Leslie B. Smith, tax collector, and the selectmen's vault, Gordon-Nash Library.

Supervisors of the Check-List;
Election Inspectors;
School District

(Next entry 63, p. 53)

IX. SUPERVISORS OF THE CHECK-LIST

Three supervisors of the check-list are elected at the biennial November election.¹

While these officials prepare the check-lists, the town clerk is the custodian. See entry 40.

X. ELECTION INSPECTORS

In all New Hampshire towns the selectmen appoint biennially four election inspectors, two of whom are designated by the moderator to act as ballot clerks.²

These officials keep no records. For records of elections, see entry 3-x, y, z, aa.

XI. SCHOOL DISTRICT

Frank H. Kelley wrote of the early New Hampton schools in the following manner:

The school-houses in the olden times were made for comfort rather than for elegance. The seats were built on raised or inclined planes looking toward the centre, one side for the boys, and the other for the girls. Each desk accommodated two pupils, and had lids opening on the top to make places for books, slates, and writing materials. The master's desk was in the centre, and was furnished with ferules, both flat and round, and a bundle of tough withes for castigating dull and unruly pupils. There was a chimney at either end of the house, with a huge fire-place fed with half a cord of green wood at a time; and, in the coldest days of winter, the fire was kept roaring that the house might be comfortable. Reading, writing, ciphering, and grammar were the studies. There were spelling-schools in the evening, when all the scholars chose sides for the championship; and, when a word was missed, the unlucky scholar must be seated. In every school a few natural spellers were found, who could stand up all the evening on the hardest words. The old district schools were little democracies, where the people met to make choice of one of their number to hire the teachers, and to raise money to pay the expenses. They discussed all questions pertaining to the schools, and every one had a lively interest in the discipline and advancement of the children.³

A committee to examine schools, composed of from two to four members, was elected annually in New Hampton from 1810-19, except for the years 1814 and 1817.¹ A superintending school committee of three members was appointed annually from 1832-44;² and from 1848-69, with some exceptions, this committee, composed of from one to three members, was appointed annually.³ From 1870-85 this committee was elected.⁴ In addition to one man elected in 1872, one was appointed.⁵ In some years from 1866 through 1884 a prudential school committee was appointed.⁶

The educational system in New Hampton, like that in other New Hampshire towns, was reorganized in 1885 by an act of the legislature. Since that time, with some exceptions, each town has constituted an individual school district supervised by a school board of three members.⁷

The New Hampton school district is in Supervisory Union No. 18 with headquarters in Franklin.⁸ The qualified voters of the school district elect each year a member of the school board, a moderator, a clerk, and a treasurer.

Records are kept at the residences of Mrs. Pauline S. Merrill, district clerk, R. F. D. #1, Bristol; Ralph E. Huckins, chairman of the school board; Mrs. Martina O. Dearborn, district treasurer; and the vault, selectmen's office, Gordon-Nash Library.

The first part of the book is devoted to a general introduction to the subject of the history of the English language. It deals with the various influences which have shaped the language, from the early Celtic and Saxon elements to the later French and Latin borrowings. The author discusses the process of language change and the role of the various dialects in the formation of the standard language.

The second part of the book is devoted to a detailed study of the grammar of the English language. It covers the various parts of speech, from nouns and verbs to adjectives and adverbs, and discusses the various grammatical constructions which are used in the language. The author also discusses the various inflections which are used to mark the different grammatical functions of the words.

The third part of the book is devoted to a study of the history of the English language. It discusses the various stages of the language, from the early Celtic and Saxon periods to the modern English of the present day. The author also discusses the various influences which have shaped the language, from the early Celtic and Saxon elements to the later French and Latin borrowings.

The fourth part of the book is devoted to a study of the various dialects of the English language. It discusses the various regional dialects, from the Scottish Gaelic to the various dialects of the English-speaking world. The author also discusses the various influences which have shaped the different dialects, from the early Celtic and Saxon elements to the later French and Latin borrowings.

The first step in the process of diagnosis is the history of the patient. This is a story of the patient's illness, as told by the patient or a family member. The history should include the onset of the illness, the duration, the progression, and the associated symptoms. The next step is the physical examination. This is a systematic examination of the patient's body, from head to toe, to identify any signs of disease. The third step is the laboratory examination. This involves the use of various tests, such as blood tests, urine tests, and X-rays, to help in the diagnosis. The fourth step is the differential diagnosis. This is the process of considering the various diseases that could cause the patient's symptoms. The fifth step is the final diagnosis. This is the conclusion reached after all the information has been considered. The final diagnosis is then used to guide the treatment of the patient.

XIV. OVERSEER OF THE POOR

The first vote (1797) in the town minutes preserved from the fire of 1887 relates, it would seem, to the business of caring for paupers. The vote in question authorized Josiah Magoon and Winthrop Robinson to "goe * * * to See" if a certain named individual "belong to this town." Presumably Robinson and Magoon were to determine if the person mentioned was entitled to support from New Hampton, or should be required to seek assistance from some other town.¹

In 1813 it was voted that the selectmen should vendue the poor to the lowest bidder from time to time as they should think proper.² A similar vote is recorded for 1825. Prices for which successful bidders agreed to assume the responsibility of supporting individual paupers ranged from $25 to $50.³

Evidence that the people in New Hampton were concerned not only with the bodily but also with the spiritual welfare of their less fortunate neighbors is furnished by an action of the voters in 1846 whereby they directed the selectmen to buy a pew in the meeting-house for the town poor to occupy.⁴

In the meanwhile (1830) a vote had been taken--contingent on the approval of the Congregational Society--to sell the parsonage, and, with the proceeds therefrom added to the ministerial fund, to buy a farm which should be used as a home for the poor. A committee of five men were chosen to obtain the required permission.⁵ The following year it was voted that the committee formerly chosen should continue to transact all necessary business connected with the purchase.⁶

By 1833 the purchase had been made. The property was used as a combined poor farm and house of correction. The selectmen and overseer of the poor were to have the general oversight of the institution, and they were to appoint a superintendent who was to manage its prudential affairs. The superintendent was to have his residence at the farm. He was to keep a book of records, and enter therein the date of arrival and discharge of each inmate and an inventory of the property brought by them on their arrival.⁷ In 1866 it was voted to sell the town farm at auction and to use the proceeds toward the liquidation of the town's debt.⁸

By a vote of 86 to 18, the town rejected a motion in 1867 to abolish pauper settlements and throw on to the county the entire burden of pauper support.⁹

The subject of buying a new town farm came to the fore in 1868, when the voters instructed the selectmen to study the best course for the town to pursue relative to that matter.¹ Evidently the selectmen decided against purchasing a new farm, as subsequent town minutes show no vote for such a purchase, and subsequent Town Reports fail to list town farm expenditures, although they do show regularly the amounts paid for the support of paupers.

At the present time the selectmen handle all phases of relief. The last appointment of an overseer of the poor occurred in 1938.²

For records of relief, see entries 48, 49.

XV. HEALTH OFFICER

The health officer first appeared in New Hampton in 1893.³ At the present time the selectmen recommend the health officer who is appointed by the State Board of Health for a 3-year term, or until his successor is appointed. The health officer and the selectmen constitute the board of health, and the health officer is the secretary and executive of the board.⁴

He keeps no records. For printed reports of the health officer, see entry 41.

XVI. ROAD AGENT

The earliest extant town minutes include a highway vote calling for $500.⁵ A highway vote of 1814 raised:

Two Days on a Single Poll and all other ratable estate in that proportion to Lay out on the Highways the present year in the following manner at Eight Cent per hour for a man and Eight Cent per hour for a pair of oxen if Done in the Month of June next if not to be Done at Six Cents per hour.⁶

From 1797-1892, with some exceptions, highway surveyors were either elected or appointed in New Hampton.⁷ In 1893 three road agents were appointed and from 1894-98 one was elected each year.⁸ In addition, in 1894 one road agent was appointed.⁹ From 1899-1902 the office of highway surveyor was filled by appointment.¹ In 1903 eighteen surveyors were elected and two appointed.² From 1907-12 one road agent was elected annually.³ In 1912 fifteen highway surveyors were also appointed.⁴ The office of highway surveyor continued to be filled by appointment from 1913-21, except for the years 1918, when one was elected, and 1919, when three were elected in addition to six appointed.⁵ From 1922-29 one officer was elected each year either as highway agent or road agent,⁶ but from 1930 to date one road agent has been elected annually.⁷

Records are kept at the residence of Millard I. Blake, road agent; and in the selectmen's vault, Gordon-Nash Library.

XVII. TREE WARDEN

A tree warden was appointed in New Hampton in 1914.¹
He kept no records, and there is no other mention of the office.

XVIII. POLICE AND CONSTABLES

From 1797-1805 the office of constable was filled annually either by election or vendue.² From 1806-59 except for the year 1850 when a constable was elected and one appointed, and except for the year 1856 when a constable was appointed, the office was filled by election.³ In some years these officials were elected as collectors and constables rather than merely as constables.⁴ At various times from 1861-80 either one or two constables were appointed. The year 1880 appears to be the last time a constable held office in New Hampton.⁵

From 1861-75 police officers, varying in number from two to ten, were appointed annually, except for the year 1871, when no appointment was made.⁶ For the next four years the office was apparently vacant, but in 1880 three police officers were appointed.⁷ At various times from 1887-1935 police officers were appointed,⁸ and from 1935 to date one police officer has been elected annually.⁹

No separate records have been found. For police regulations, 1872, see entry 3-bo.

XIX. INFORMERS AND COMPLAINANTS

From 1833 through 1841 five informers and complainants were appointed annually by the selectmen.¹⁰ It was the duty of these officers "to complain

XX. DOG POLICE

At various times from 1892-1936 dog police were appointed.²
They kept no records.

XXI. TOWN PROSECUTOR

A town prosecutor was elected in New Hampton in 1854,³ but the following year the selectmen were specifically made town prosecutors.⁴ No other mention of the prosecutor can be found, except for the year 1869 when one was elected and one appointed,⁵ and the year 1903 when one was appointed.⁶

No records were kept.

XXII. TOWN AGENT

A town agent was first elected in New Hampton in 1807. From that time through 1898 town agents, varying in number from one to nineteen were either elected or appointed as need required.⁷

These officials kept no records.

XXIII. LIQUOR AGENT

The selectmen were specifically instructed in 1844 to prosecute all unlicensed sellers of liquor.⁸ Four years later the town voted in favor of an enactment by the general court prohibiting the sale of liquor except for mechanical or medicinal purposes.⁹ In 1853 the town went on record as supporting a bill then before the legislature for the suppression of drinking places.¹⁰

New Hampton Village Fire
Precinct - Warrants and Minutes

(78)

Liquor agents were appointed in New Hampton at various times from 1855-75.¹ No further mention of the office is found until 1885 when one agent was appointed.² This is the last mention of a liquor agent in New Hampton.

No records of the liquor agent were found. For liquor and tavern licenses, see entry 3-av, aw.

XXIV. NEW-HAMPTON VILLAGE FIRE PRECINCT

New Hampton established a village precinct in 1887, but it was not until March 30, 1911, that the State legislature passed a law stating the fire precinct established in 1887 under the general law, should be known as the New Hampton Village Fire Precinct and confirming all votes passed and all acts done in behalf of the precinct.³ In the meanwhile, however, the legislature had granted authority to the New Hampton Village Fire Precinct to establish waterworks for the use of the public and for fire fighting purposes. The precinct was further authorized to establish a board of water commissioners to have charge of the waterworks.⁴

In 1925 the New Hampton Village Fire Precinct was authorized to supply the inhabitants with electric current.⁵

At the first meeting of the precinct (1887) there were elected a moderator, a clerk, a chief fire warden, and two assistant fire wardens.⁶ At the present time, the precinct, at its annual election, chooses a moderator, a clerk, a treasurer, and three firewards for a 1-year term, and an electric light commissioner for a 3-year term. Every five years the precinct elects three water commissioners.

The firemen have an association of their own within the precinct. They hold annual meetings wherein they elect their own officers—exclusive of the firewards which are regular precinct officials. The officers elected by the firemen consist of a chief, an assistant chief, a captain, and a clerk-treasurer.

The regular precinct records are located in the homes of Mrs. Martina O. Dearborn and Vernon C. Harvey, respectively clerk and treasurer of the precinct, and in the selectmen's vault, Gordon-Nash Library. Records of the fire association are kept in the home of Frank Seaver, clerk-treasurer.

XXV. FOREST FIRE WARDEN

The forest fire warden is appointed by the State Forester, on the recommendation of the selectmen, for a term of one year or until his successor is appointed.¹ The New Hampton forest fire warden does not keep records.

XXVI. SEALER OF WEIGHTS AND MEASURES

A sealer of weights and measures was elected in New Hampton in 1798,² but for the next seven years the office was not mentioned. From 1806 through 1810, however, a sealer was chosen annually. In 1809 he was elected as a sealer of weights and measures and surveyor of lumber.³ Apparently no sealer held office for the next six years, but from 1817 through 1820 a sealer was chosen at each annual meeting.⁴ For the next two years the officer was elected annually as a sealer of weights and measures and surveyor of lumber.⁵ The office was not filled in 1823, but from 1824 through 1860, except for a few years, a sealer was chosen annually.¹ During the years 1862-66, the sealer received office by appointment.² No further mention of the office can be found in the Town Minute Books.

No records were kept.

XXVII. LUMBER OFFICERS

From 1797 through 1860, with some exceptions, surveyors of lumber, varying in number from one to four, were elected annually.³ In 1863⁴ and again in 1867⁵ a surveyor of lumber was appointed. In the years 1809,⁶ 1821,⁷ 1822,⁸ and 1828⁹ a sealer of weights and measures and surveyor of lumber was elected.

A corder of wood was first elected in 1834,¹⁰ but apparently for the next three years the office was not filled. However, from 1838-59, except for the years 1854 and 1856, from one to seven corders of wood were elected annually.¹¹

In 1797¹² a culler of staves and in 1860¹³ a surveyor of wood were elected. In the years 1863¹⁴ and 1867¹⁵ a measurer of wood was appointed. No further mention of these offices can be found.

At different times from 1883 to date, surveyors of wood and lumber have been appointed. There is one such official serving at the present time. He was appointed in 1940 for an indefinite term.¹⁶

He keeps no records; no records of defunct lumber offices have been found. For certificate of surveyed lumber, see entry 3-ay.

XXVIII. POUND-KEEPER

The earliest extant town minutes show that the voters directed the selectmen (1797) to appoint a pound-keeper.¹⁷ In 1809 it was "Voted that the Selectmen erect a pound where it is in their opinion a Suitable place to convean the town."¹⁸ The selectmen were instructed in 1824 to repair the pound and secure a new lock for it.¹ New Hampton voted four years later to build a stone pound on the town common. The building of this pound, for which the specifications were prescribed in detail, was auctioned off to Abraham Ward for $59.50.² In 1880 the town rejected a motion to dispense with the pound.³

The exact date at which the New Hampton pound went out of use has not been determined. In 1937 an article to repair the pound was laid aside.⁴

As already mentioned the selectmen were instructed to appoint a pound-keeper in the year 1797.⁵ The following year one was elected.⁶ For the next three years there is no record of the office being filled, but in 1802 a pound-keeper was elected.⁷ Another 3-year gap occurred in the office, but from 1806 through 1866 a pound-keeper was elected or appointed annually, except for the years 1856 and 1861.⁸ No further mention of the office can be found until 1937, when the voters elected a pound-keeper.⁹

No records kept by the pound-keeper have been discovered.

XXIX. HOGREEVES, HAYWARDS, FIELD DRIVERS, AND HOG CONSTABLES

The control of stray domestic animals proved a vexing problem in New Hampshire towns from their settlement until well into the nineteenth century. The problem of strays often received attention at town meetings. This fact is interestingly illustrated by a set of by-laws adopted by the New Hampton voters at their annual meeting for 1835.

No horse, "horse kind", neat cattle or sheep were to run at large in any highway between the first day of April and the last day of October. For every horse and every "neet Beast" found running at large during the forbidden period, the owner, or person responsible for its care, was to forfeit one dollar. The forfeit for sheep running at large was considerably less—twelve and a half cents per head. Penalties were recoverable in an action of debt before any justice of peace in the county by any person who should sue for the same. But a loophole was seemingly provided by the words "unless it shall be made to appear that such [animal] was going at Large without the knowlege of the owner or the Person having the Care of the Same."¹⁰

In 1853 a somewhat more detailed set of regulations was adopted. Animals specifically mentioned in the 1853 regulations were horses, asses, mules, neat cattle, sheep, and swine. Any person finding strays in any street, highway, or common could drive them to an enclosure and keep them there awaiting a claimant. If none appeared within three days, the finder was to advertise the animals by posting notices in two public places showing when the strays were brought to the enclosure, and giving their description. If the animals were not claimed within 12 days, and all fines and costs paid, they were to be sold at public auction. All costs, fines, and fees were to be paid to the finder from the proceeds of the sale. The balance was to be paid to the town.¹

Any person in the town was thus eligible to pick up strays and to receive compensation. But the town also, at times, elected officers whose bounden duty it was to gather strays.

At intervals from 1797-1816 hogreeves were elected in New Hampton.² In some of these years they were elected as hogreeves and haywards;³ fence viewers and hogreeves;⁴ fence viewers, hogreeves, and haywards;⁵ and fence viewers, hogreeves, and field drivers.⁶

A hog constable was elected in 1838,⁷ but the office is not mentioned for the next 6 years. From 1845 through 1855, except for 1854, hog constables, varying in number from one to eleven, were elected.⁸

These officials kept no records. For record of stray notices, see entry 3-cj.

XXX. FENCE VIEWERS

From 1797-1874, with some exceptions, fence viewers, varying in number from one to nine, held office either by election or appointment.⁹ In some of these years they held office as fence viewers and hogreeves;¹⁰ fence viewers, hogreeves, and haywards;¹¹ fence viewers, hogreeves, and field drivers;¹² or fence viewers and field drivers.¹³ No other mention of the office can be found until 1882 when three fence viewers were appointed.¹⁴ This is the last mention of the office.

No separate records were found. For records of fence divisions and agreements, see entries 3-ac, 37; for original fence divisions and agreements, see entry 36-i.

XXXI. FISH WARDENS

From 1797 through 1801 fish wardens, varying in number from two to three, were elected annually in New Hampton.¹ At various times from 1804 through 1819 from one to three fish wardens were chosen.² There is no further mention of the office until 1879, when one was appointed. Another warden was appointed in 1882 and one was elected in 1883.³ From 1885 through 1899 one fish warden was elected annually, except for the year 1886.⁴ No further mention of the office can be found.

No records were kept.

XXXII. TYTHINGMEN

From 1797 through 1855 tythingmen, varying in number from one to four, were elected annually, except for the years 1812, 1851, 1852, and 1854.⁵

They kept no records.

XXXIII. TOWN HISTORY COMMITTEE

At the 1940 town meeting the moderator appointed Amy J. Dolloff, Ruth F. Libby, and Stella H. Pollard to act as a committee to work with Clarence C. Swain and John Curtis Gowan in obtaining data for a town history.⁶

The 1940 Town Report carries the following announcement which is reproduced here in the hope that persons missing the original notice, but seeing this reproduction, will communicate with Mr. Gowan about any historical data they have.

Material for a future history of the Town of New Hampton is being currently gathered by Clarence Gordon Swain and John Curtis Gowan. As this history will include sketches and information about all people who have ever resided in the town, it is hoped that all present citizens will cooperate to the extent of sending in material and information concerning themselves and their families.

If possible, such information should include: place and date of birth of the individual concerned, place and date of his father and mother, and their fathers, the name, and place and date of birth of his spouse, and of her father and mother, the date of the marriage, and dates of birth of children, and notes about their marriages if any. Any other supplementary material will be welcomed, especially genealogical or family records, extending through several generations. Older citizens of the town who possess valuable information on its early history, or who have anecdotes about early settlers will be interviewed in their homes if they so desire.

Please send such information as you have or an invitation to call and see you to John Curtis Gowan, New Hampton, N. H.¹

In connection with the above, Mr. Gowan wishes it to be known that there is a considerable amount of genealogical material relating both to townspeople and students which can be consulted by inquiry at the Gordon-Nash Library.
